Hi Richard: I am confirming Kresge's participation in this project. It is not my ideal program but maybe in the future we'll get to it.

Best,
Juan

On Jan 28, 2012, at 3:32 PM, VPDUE wrote:

> Hi Alice, Faye, Joel, and Juan,
>
> I've received the attached from CAFA. Before responding, I wanted to confirm that each of you supports this plan. Could you each send a confirmation that this is the program structure you are proposing to implement? It looks like there will need to be 2 course proposals in the near future, one for Stevenson, and one for Spring (for which UE sponsorship would make sense, as it's a common course).
>
> I maintain my commitment for funding approximately half of the college-specific instructional cost following the details of the outline of a few months ago. This would include Stevenson 2-unit fall, Crown, Cowell, Kresge winter seminars, any cost differential on the Stevenson winter seminar, and fully covering instructor expenses for the common Spring course. If not all colleges desire UE matching funds, then I would be happy to reallocate the savings to other colleges.
>
> Thank you all for working on this; it's been interesting to see the dynamic process of convergence, and for the beginning launch that really leverages our existing first-year college communities for the creation of a coherent campus honors program that embraces college distinctiveness.
>
> Thanks,
> Richard
>
> <Proposal for Honors Program for 2012-13 copy.pdf>
On Jan 28, 2012, at 3:32 PM, VPDUE <vpdue@ucsc.edu> wrote:

> Hi Alice, Faye, Joel, and Juan,
>
> I've received the attached from CAFA. Before responding, I wanted to confirm that each of you supports this plan. Could you each send a confirmation that this is the program structure you are proposing to implement? It looks like there will need to be 2 course proposals in the near future, one for Stevenson, and one for Spring (for which UE sponsorship would make sense, as it's a common course).
>
> I maintain my commitment for funding approximately half of the college-specific instructional cost following the details of the outline of a few months ago. This would include Stevenson 2-unit fall, Crown, Cowell, Kresge winter seminars, any cost differential on the Stevenson winter seminar, and fully covering instructor expenses for the common Spring course. If not all colleges desire UE matching funds, then I would be happy to reallocate the savings to other colleges.
>
> Thank you all for working on this; it's been interesting to see the dynamic process of convergence, and for the beginning launch that really leverages our existing first-year college communities for the creation of a coherent campus honors program that embraces college distinctiveness.
>
> Thanks,
> Richard
>
> <Proposal for Honors Program for 2012-13 copy.pdf>
On 1/28/12 3:32 PM, VPDUE wrote:

Hi Alice, Faye, Joel, and Juan,

I've received the attached from CAFA. Before responding, I wanted to confirm that each of you supports this plan. Could you each send a confirmation that this is the program structure you are proposing to implement? It looks like there will need to be 2 course proposals in the near future, one for Stevenson, and one for Spring (for which UE sponsorship would make sense, as it's a common course).

I maintain my commitment for funding approximately half of the college-specific instructional cost following the details of the outline of a few months ago. This would include Stevenson 2-unit fall, Crown, Cowell, Kresge winter seminars, any cost differential on the Stevenson winter seminar, and fully covering instructor expenses for the common Spring course. If not all colleges desire UE matching funds, then I would be happy to reallocate the savings to other colleges.

Thank you all for working on this; it's been interesting to see the dynamic process of convergence, and for the beginning launch that really leverages our existing first-year college communities for the creation of a coherent campus honors program that embraces college distinctiveness.

Thanks,
Richard
Dear Richard,

Stevenson is participating in the program.

Thanks,

Alice

On Jan 28, 2012, at 3:32 PM, VPDUE wrote:

<Proposal for Honors Program for 2012-13 copy.pdf>